HIGHLIGHTS

123 Show

On Tuesday's 123 Show we're talking about the pros and cons of the ketogenic diet, a low-carb, high-fat weight-reduction plan. We're joined by Joëlle Bradford, a licensed naturopathic practitioner at Integrated Medicine Institute (IMI) Hong Kong. That's at 1.30. After 2. #### Morning Brew

Good morning and welcome to Tuesday. On Morning Brew today we welcome RTL France's man in Hong Kong, Philippe Dova, at 10.10. Tomorrow is budget day so he's with us this morning instead. Not a lot is known about the inner workings of The Vatican, including the fact that it has its own radio station. Philippe files stories for them, and today he'll be chatting with Marie Duhamel from Radio Vatican, who will tell us the station's story. After 10.30 it's all things Aussie, including some great Down Under tracks, with Jarrod Watt. At 11.10 Dr. Merrin Pearse brings us another mini nature doco. This week: Jellyfish, with John Terenzini from the Hong Kong Jellyfish Project, a citizen science based project to record jellyfish sightings. There are actually lots of different varieties in Hong Kong, and if you join us on Facebook live you can see a few. After 12 we're off to Melbourne to catch up with biz futurist Morris Miselowski. Tomorrow being budget day, we thought we'd talk about the future of money and payment. (9:30am-1pm, email morningbrew@rthk.hk and Facebook)

Backchat

On Tuesday's Backchat, patriots ruling HK and Sunday's luxury car parade.

The head of Beijing's Hong Kong and Macau Affairs Office, Xia Baolong, said on Monday that Hong Kong's leadership – from the executive to the legislature and the judicial systems – must compose of "staunch patriots", and that the election system must be reformed so that people who "oppose China and disrupt Hong Kong" cannot take up positions of authority.

What does this mean for Hong Kong? Will there be electoral reform to limit elections further?

From 9:15am-9:30am, we'll be discussing the luxury car parade that got intercepted by police on Sunday morning.

Let us know your thoughts. You can leave a message on our Facebook page, Backchat on RTHK Radio 3, email us at backchat@rthk.hk or give us a call on 23388266.

Money Talk

Technology shares have tumbled in Hong Kong and the US as the Bloomberg Commodity Index rose to the highest level since 2013, raising the spectre of inflation. In Hong Kong, the Hang Seng Tech Index plunged 5.5%, in the worst sell-off since mid-November. In the US, the NASDAQ Composite Index tumbled 2.5% to a 3-week low.

Hong Kong's Financial Secretary, Paul Chan, is expected to unveil an austerity budget tomorrow as he expresses concern over the deficit which is expected to hit a record high of HK$300 billion in the current fiscal year. The finance minister is expected to announce measures to develop a green ecosystem in Hong Kong, which he believes is key to the city's economic recovery.

Chinese Foreign Minister Wang Yi urged the Biden Administration to remove tariffs and sanctions and to "build up goodwill." He said the actions of the Trump administration to suppress and contain China were the root cause of the difficulties in their bilateral relations. He added, the US should abandon the "irrational suppression" of China's technology progress.

On today's Money Talk, we're joined by Dickie Wong of Kingston Securities and Alex Frew McMillian from Dragonfly Media. With a view from South Korea is Peter Kim of KB Securities.
